Rethinking Borders: The Aftermath of the Syrian Conflict

A guest lecture by
Dr. Filippo Dionigi
Fellow, Middle East Center,
London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)

This lecture will explore one of the most extensive displacement crises the region has experienced in the aftermath of the Syrian conflict. It will primarily underline the dynamics linking displacement from Syria to the neighboring countries and the nature of borders and statehood in the region.

Dr. Filippo Dionigi is a fellow at the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)'s Middle East Centre. He is currently working on a study of the impact of the Syrian refugee crisis in Lebanon, Jordan, and Iraq. He is primarily interested in the international relations of the Middle East and has published a book and several scholarly articles on religion and Middle Eastern international relations, refugees and statehood, and international norms diffusion in the Middle East.

Monday, May 8, 2017
11:30 AM – 12:30 PM

A UIS, Building A, Room A-AG-05
Please RSVP at iris@auis.edu.krd - Attendance is restricted to members of the AUIS community.